"Creating Magic Throughout the World," written by Lee Cockerell, is a photographic documentation of all living natural and man-made wonders. This book is not only a wonder at the beauty of these locations but also the tricks used by the photographers to create these great images. From natural wonders to man-made wonders, Cockerell has captured this world of light and color. From a twenty-year-old photograph of Irish cliffs to a magnum diamond to the "breathtaking" Grand Canyon in American Southwest, there is wonder on every page. Cockerell brings his extensive knowledge and experience to create this impressive book that covers our world from the sub-zero north to the east coast and south to the subtropics. He has personally photographed the wonders on every continent from Africa to Antarctica to Asia.
